Retrieved from the Resource Archive for Teaching Language and Gender

All use must be cited appropriately.
Copyright remains with original author of the material

Last updated 1 Nov 2006

Homework 17

Due Monday, November 14 at 11am (in class)

The homework questions for this unit are set up to help you organize the reading, and help me identify which examples and concepts are difficult for you.

Below is a list of major examples in reading for today. For each example, summarize its main finding and what it is meant to exemplify. Make these summaries very brief – if you understand it well, you should be able to do it with one sentence for the main finding of the example and one sentence for its significance.

1. Standardization and Japanese women

2. Gal 1978 Oberwart, Austria

3. Holmquist 1985 Ucieda, Spain

4. Nichols 1983 South Carolina

5. Zhang 2001 Beijing, China

6. Milroy 1980 Belfast, Ireland

7. Hill 1987 Mexicano

8. Sidnell 1999 Guyana

9. Haeri 1997 Cairo, Egypt

10. Trabelsi 1991 Tunis, Tunisia

11. Benor 2001 American Orthodox Jews

Vocabulary: Briefly (2-3 sentences) give a definition for each term and explain its significance for variation studies of language and gender .

12. Standard

13. Vernacular

14. Variety

15. Dialect

16. Language

17. Linguistic market